“ Rest in peace my dearest Unc. Oh how I will forever treasure and now so sadly miss sitting down with you at your kitchen table and having one of our detailed conversations. I was always amazed how I could ask you practically any question about our family, friends or the local area and you could answer it whether it was old news or current news...It will never be the same when I put a boston butt in the crock pot to make barbeque and not be able to call you and tell you to come pick up your half of it....I will love you always. “ Uncle Rogers, there's no way or enough room to put here what I am feeling. But I really don't have to put it into words, because as Grannie always said "Your actions are speaking so loudly, I can't hear your words". Whenever you lose a close loved one, one of the worst feelings is knowing that you can't call them and ask advice or to just say hello or to vent. Thank you for all the years of love, understanding and help you gave me. May you be at peace now and not in pain anymore with the family in the heavens until we meet again. Love and miss you much already. Thelma

“ You will be greatly missed, my friend...honest, caring, and love for family and friends are but a few, very few, adjectives that described Rogers...RIP buddy.
