“ Well Junebug, it's now April 12th, 2025 a day before you passed away and I still miss you every day. I look through things that are thrown back and find pictures of you, and think about you of when the picture was taken and how happy you were. We all take for granted the time we have with the people who mean the most in our lives. I'm sorry we never got to spend more time together. I really hope you have found the peace and rest you so deserve. We have now lost Eddie and Cedric as well, but I'm sure you know that and they are with you. It's almost 18 years as of tomorrow since losing you. It feels like yesterday, the same with the others. Just know that you are still very much alive in my heart and will always be. I love you and always will now and for infinity.

“ Dennis- Wow what a double wammy! Cecil and Sam both within hours. I am so glad you were a part of the last meal I had with Sam. I knew it was too loud for you but Sam did enjoy himself. Sam always had fun stories to tell about the growing up years with your family. I feel privileged to have spent time with you and Cecil over the past year.
