“ Mabel and family, We are very sorry for this great loss and will surely keep each and everyone in our prayers. Stan had such great respect for Lamar and that has been for many years. He and Lamar had alot of good times fishing together. Stan always said that Lamar taught him how to fish for brim at stuckeys pond. He would come over often and stay for short visits, then other times he would spend hours following behind Stan both laughing and talking but always with his cigar in his hand. Lamar was one of a kind and we truly loved him and will forever remember all the good times. Our grandkids loved Lamar and he did love all kids.

“ Lamar was such a wonderful man and we will certainly miss him and miss seeing him walking around the block close to his home. I got to know him when I worked with his wife Mable at Minerals & Chemicals (now BASF). She and I sometimes had to work late and he would bring us supper if needed - he was a joy to be around. I (we) feel priviledged to have known him.
