“ I haven't known Travis for very long, but what I do know of him in our short friendship, was that he loved his family deeply, he loved his friends (old and new) and most of all...he was a good person with a kind soul. The type of guy you look at and say we need more of "him" in the world. Nobody is perfect, but our heart and goodness that we give to others should over-shadow our flaws. When I heard of Travis' passing, I was literally at a loss for words. I sat outside that day with the sun on my face and sought peace, not saying a word. I didn't even say Oh my God, no! It was a different feeling because it was Travis...the guy who I will never forget. The guy who represents----you won't be remembered for the words said to others, but how you made others feel. He made me feel like I met a truly good guy. I'm overwhelmingly sorry for the loss all of you are feeling. To his children: He loved you both immensely. He loved you, lacy. As a mom myself, my heart aches and I will pray for the strength and peace you need to be able to continue to put your feet on the ground each morning.

Holly, what a beautiful expression and a graceful arrangement of words to describe the Travis that I knew as well. They come so very close to representing Travis's soul to a tee. He was a gentle man indeed. For those of you who don't know, Holly is a wonderful woman and I'm so blessed to have her as a friend here in N. Augusta, SC.

“ My Son, from the first day I held your tiny body in my arms, and held your tiny hand. I prayed for you to have a long and happy life. Your were always a great kid and a wonderful person. Even in life's struggles you loved all that would love you. I will miss our talks and times together. You took with you a piece of my heart. A void that can never be filled by anyone else. You may be gone but, you will never be forgotten not a day will pass that I don't think of you. I will never let go. You carry my love with you until we meet again in a better place. Sleep my son until then.... I love you Momma
